

---

Contents

---

Acknowledgments . . . . .	vii
Acronyms . . . . .	ix
Preface . . . . .	xv

Section One: Introduction and Regional Context

1 Introduction . . . . .	3
Michael D. Swaine and Oriana Skylar Mastro
2 China's Asia Policy: Strategy and Tactics. . . . .	25
Alex Liebman

Section Two: People's Liberation Army (PLA) Doctrine and Capabilities

3 The PLA and Joint Operations: Moving from Theory Toward Practice. . . . .	55
Dean Cheng
4 Evolving Chinese Concepts of War Control and Escalation Management . . . . .	85
Lonnie D. Henley
5 PLA Power Projection: Current Realities and Emerging Trends. . . . .	111
Roy D. Kamphausen and Justin Liang

Section Three: Threats, Deterrence, and Escalation Control in a Taiwan Contingency

- 6 Air Force Deterrence and Escalation Calculations
for a Taiwan Strait Conflict: China, Taiwan, and the United States. . . . . 153
Kenneth W. Allen
- 7 The Military Instrument of Statecraft at Sea:
Naval Options in an Escalatory Scenario
Involving Taiwan: 2007–2016. . . . . 185
Bernard D. Cole
- 8 The Nuclear Dimension: How Likely? How Stable?. . . . . 213
Brad Roberts
- 9 PRC Information Operations: Myths, Trends, and New Opportunities. . . . . 243
James Mulvenon
- 10 Taiwan’s Defense Preparation Against the Chinese Military Threat. . . . . 265
Andrew N. D. Yang
- 11 The Implications of Chinese Military Modernization
for U.S. Force Posture in a Taiwan Conflict. . . . . 285
Roger Cliff

Section Four: Conclusions

- 12 Future East Asian Security Architecture:
Implications for the PLA. . . . . 311
Alan D. Romberg
- 13 Assessing the Threat. . . . . 337
Michael D. Swaine and Oriana Skylar Mastro
- Bibliography. . . . . 367
- Index. . . . . 387
- Contributors. . . . . 409
- Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. . . . . 415